try has to have one nominee. Geddes has fixed matters so that he can scarcely lose, unless unforescen combinations arise, while Egan and Gamblesday's convention is to be conducted. Because upon the arrangement of the order of the force of ment of the order of business depends to a great deal. It is conceded there will be a fight between the McKinjay for be a fight between the McKinley faction and the independent forces. Up to date the former have none, if any, candidates for county offices, but when the time comes for the nomination of members of the legislature, the gold men wil demand recognition. If the battle royal, which will be precipitated at the time the candidates for the upper and lower houser are placed before the convention, takes place before the convention, takes place before the convention, takes place before the mominations for county offices are made, there will be a whole lot of trouble and states which are now nicely written and framed will be broken. So there will be an enort made by the silver men to have the committee on permanent organization and order of business made up of men who will report in favor of men who will report in favor of men who will reon permanent organization and order of business made up of men who will re-port in favor of making the country selections first. If this can be done the McKinleyites will be shut out entirely. Because the action of the state commit-tee in refusing to creat with the inde-pendents has created a feeling of an-tagenism, which is growing every day on the part of the latter and its sup-porters, and will crop out at the con-

The action of the supporters of every candidate on the floor will be watched and in the event of the rout of the gold men, when the time comes to vote, we will follow the men who fight hardest to achieve the condition alluded to.

for assessor. The mistake was an unfortunate one for the candidates for auditor, as it compelled them to go huselling hard yesterday. Mr. Parsons is not the Mr. Parsons of the Z. C. M. I., but is chairman of the Republican committee, and he is working I., but is chairman of the Republican county committee, and he is working very hard for the place, to the diguist of the man from Big Cottonwood, Mr. Bitner, and his friends, who allege that it is not fair for the chairman to go looking for office while holding the position he does. But Arthur does not care; he goes right along, and he and Bitner will have the matter out when the convention reaches that order of The Herald is requested to state that Charlie Stanton has relieved Al Reese of any obligations whatever and that of any obligations whatever and that the rumor given circulation to the effect that the latter will be given a place in the office of the county clerk in the event of election, is incorrect. Reese decisres that he enters this contest free from any incumbrance in the matter of promises and is unitrammelled in all other respects.

In the race for the resistion of county

In the race for the position of county auditor, there is but little change so far as can be ascertained from the conversation of the several candidates. Haybould is contending he will get there by a large vote: Shelley maintains he is sure, while Fisher is saying nothing, but if it was cordwood he was cutting he would have a supply for cold weather. As a matter of fact, Fisher is in the lead, as far as numbers of delegates are concerned, and this lead is likely to increase today and tomorrow. Up to date he has been kept busy by the commisrants. But from this time on he will have a chance to do the work needed for himself, and will devote a day or two to his own interests.

Harvey Hardy is having his old fight over again with the Tribune, which, while not openly opposing him, is en-deavoring to create the impression that while not openly opposing him, is endeavoring to create the impression that he is in league with Arthur Brown. This is denied by his supporters, who maintain there is no coalition, clique or combination, so far as he is concerned, and that he is running his own machine. Hardy still holds an apparent good lead, and on the first ballot will make the ablest showing. Although Paul, Condie and others contend they are going into the convention with great numbers of delegates, the combined support of all will not make a first-class showing. Joe Y. Smith is going to be the hardest man Hardy has to fight, judging from the conversations of yesterday, and if he should not succeed in galaing sufficient strength to make a good showing, it is very likely that Colonel W. J. Shields will come in next with a combination of all the tall ender's delegates. Because in this fight it is "Down Hardy" at all hazards. A whole lot of people who wanted to be deputy sheriff and Allin's set there are work. Black Canyon Be sure to ask your lot of people who wanted to be deputy theket agent for ticket via the Denver sheriffa and didn't get there are work. Concluding, this Salt Lake man remarks and outside man, Shields is the logical candidate for them to tie to. This is constatements of elections in Illinois since Adam Paul's friends say he will have Adam Paul's friends say he will have 175 votes on the first ballot, while the supporters of Condie have contented themselves with fifteen less. After the convention is ended, they will feel as did Will Dykes at the close of a Liberal convention in this city four years ago, when McQueen was nominated. Dykes asked a friend to nominate him, saying he was sure of getting there, that he had eighty-seven votes on the first ballot. The friend nominated him, and when the vote was counted Dykes first ballot. The friend nominated him, and when the vote was counted Dykes had seventeen votes. Speaking to him after the convention, the friend stated. "Will, I thought you told me you had eighty-seven votes sure on the first ballot."

Although yesterday was the Sabbath, the politicians were as diligent in their lators as any day during the week. The candidates were on the street a good portion of the time and a siray delegate who ventured out was immediately collared and taiked to until the missed his dinner. There is a feel-has fixed matters so that he can Realizing this state of affairs the several candidates who are in the lead, by their influential friends, are working to secure harmony and to avoid a clash, while those who are behind in the race for place will do all porsole to bring on contention. Because be it known the McKinley men have a good alghting force and will be able to distance in a close struggle. And there will be several close struggles, too, The convention will be a long drawn out affair, owing to many bickerings which will occur.

True, Mr. Holbrook is an estimable citizen, but compared with Judge W. H. King as a candidate for congressional honors, he will absolutely sink into insignificance, so far as training and capacity for that office are concerned; but this is a Democratic year and the brilliant point of the convention will be along the following the congress of the game.
